about IMCES:

The Institute for Multicultural Counseling and Education Services (IMCES) was established in 1989 with the focus on promoting human rights and eliminating disparity of any form in our society. We believe health and well being is the basic human right of everyone and that must be part of the social fabric of our society.

IMCES is one of the few non-profit outpatient community clinics specifically designed to treat the whole person including body and mind. We integrate and treat the varied health, mental health, social and educational needs of the underserved culturally and linguistically diverse communities of Los Angeles. Our services ranges to include prevention, early intervention as well as intervention for the severe illnesses.

We understand, honor, and respect the many different customs that cultural and ethnic diversity brings forth. We are committed to eliminating the stigma and disparity of health and mental health service delivery. IMCES promotes social justice and strives to reduce polarization and animosity within and between local and international communities we are connected. Ultimately we hope to bridge the divide between the concept of "Us" and "Them" a universal cross cultural challenge.

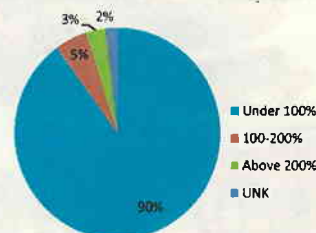

about The Founder:

Dr. Tara Pir founded the Institute for Multicultural Counseling & Education Services (IMCES) in 1989, she is a clinical psychologist and diplomate in behavioral medicine and professional psychotherapy, she is an immigrant woman from a multicultural family. She has nearly three decades of experience in providing clinical practice, clinical training , mentorship, graduate level teaching, research, international speaking, human rights advocacy, community service, and leadership positions worldwide. Dr. Pir developed and implemented over ten programs and awarded funding for the last 20 years. Amongst her numerous accomplishments she was appointed and elected to many leadership positions on a local and international level. Currently Dr. Pir is President of the International Council of Psychologist (ICP) a long standing international organization.

We are committed to providing culturally and linguistically competent services:
